Helen – is this address for the public page? W Va Gazette reporting on it – and scientific American freelancer asking for the address.

From the Gazette: "On Wednesday, EPA officials unveiled a website titled, "Charleston WV Chemical Leak" which lists its on-scene coordinators but provides few details about what the EPA is or isn't doing."

Alison,

There is general information on these sites---more on our site than R4's. The summary gives some information about our role and the the EPA Concept of Operations document also gives some detail about our capabilities. We'll keep monitoring the site for when sitreps/polreps get added and let you know. You may want to consider linking these pages off the EPA homepage. Thanks and let me know if you need additional information.
